JULY 2025 HIGHLIGHTS

GENERAL OVERVIEW

July 2025 was defined by stronger coordination with partners, investment facilitation, and measurable progress on national monitoring and evaluation (M&E) systems. The Federal Government and the UN met in Mogadishu to review the 2021–2025 Cooperation Framework and chart the 2026–2030 agenda across governance, economic growth, social services, and climate resilience. The Ministry introduced the e-NIMIS digital M&E platform at the Social Development Pillar subcommittee, advancing data collection and performance tracking.

Capacity-building featured prominently: an M&E study visit to Uganda produced concrete outputs—including a learning report, cooperation with the Uganda Evaluation Association, and a work plan to strengthen Somalia’s evaluation system. A two-day technical meeting with JICA focused on youth employment and entrepreneurship for vulnerable groups.

On investment and cooperation, SOMINVEST engaged the Saudi Ambassador to deepen investment ties, while the Ministry launched the sixth “Investment Opportunities” report on professional services. Strategic policy dialogue also continued through consultations with the World Bank on Somalia’s first Country Climate and Development Report (CCDR).

MINISTER'S MESSAGE

Fellow Somalis and partners,

This month, we took practical steps to align cooperation and finance with our national priorities under the National Transformation Plan (NTP 2025–2029) and Vision 2060. At the Government-UN Joint Steering Committee, we set a clear course for the 2026–2030 cooperation framework, centring on good governance, economic opportunity, social services, and climate resilience.

We are investing in systems that deliver results. The e-NIMIS platform and our Uganda study visit mark a decisive shift toward evidence-based planning and accountability across government. We are equally committed to jobs and private-sector growth, engaging development partners like JICA on youth employment and promoting investment, including through sectoral analysis and dialogue with international investors.

Our direction is consistent and forward-looking: mobilise fair and sustainable finance, strengthen institutions, and create opportunities for every community. I thank our citizens, civil servants, and partners for their dedication, and I invite all stakeholders to continue aligning efforts with the NTP for a more resilient and prosperous Somalia.
